

7th UNESCO UNITWIN Conference

THE INTERNATIONAL SCIENTIFIC UNITWIN CONFERENCE IN PORTOROŽ IS APPROACHING...

The conference is forming its full image and content. Here are some highlights.

Three main topics will be presented at the conference within the framework of cultural heritage and tourism:

- (1) World Heritage Sites in the changing world,
- (2) Tourism innovation and
- (3) Sustainable development.

On the first day of the conference, four renowned international keynote speakers will present global challenges and directions for the further development of heritage tourism:

- Maria Gravari-Barbas, Coordinator of the UNESCO UNITWIN Network “Culture, Tourism and Development” (Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne University)
- Sara Dolničar, Research Professor at the UQ Business School and at the Institute for Business and Economics (University of Queensland),
- Vicky Katsoni, Professor at the Tourism Department and president of the International Association of Cultural and Digital Tourism (University of Western Attica),
- Lučka Kajfež Bogataj, Professor and researcher of climate change and applied meteorology (University of Ljubljana)

During the three days of the conference, there will be 3 plenary debates, 2 round tables and 3 thematic sections, where 128 academic papers, 188 authors from 35 countries will be presented.

In addition to the program content, the conference will include visits to two UNESCO World Heritage sites in Slovenia: The Škocjan Caves, which last year marked 35 years of the inscription on the UNESCO list, and the newly premiered Plečnik Heritage in Ljubljana.

The planned implementation of the conference is hybrid, due to the uncertain situation regarding the pandemic around the world and the crisis situation in Ukraine. The program is designed with 80 percent of live performances and will adapt to the situation.
